POETRY.

Better Late than Never. Life is a race where some succeed, While others are beginning; Tis luck, at times, at others speed That gives an early winning. But if you chance to full behind, Ne'er slacken your endeavor Just keep this wholesome truth in mind— Tis better late than never.

If you can keep shead, 'tis well, But never trip your neighbor; Tis noble when you can excel By honest patient labor. But, if you are outstripped at last,
Press on as bold as ever:
Remember, though you are surpassed—
"Tis better late than never.

No'er labor for an idle boast Of victory o'er another; But while you strice your attermost, Deal fairly with a brother, Whate'er your station, do your best, And hold your purpose ever: And if you full to beat the rest— 'Tis better late than never.

Choose well the path in which you run, Succeed by noble daring; Then, though the last, whence once its won Your crown is worth the wearing. Then never fret if left behind,
Nor slacken your endeaver:
But ever keep this truth in mind—
"Tis better late than never.

VARIETY.

Kitty Pleasanton's First Offer. I cannot remember the time when I was not in love with Kitty Pleasanton. It must have begun when we were both babics. I am sure I loved her as we sat together by the road-side soaking our dandelion stems in the little puddles of water to make them curl. My passion was in nowise abated, when, somewhat later, I climbed cherry trees at her bidding; nor later yet when at a dancing school I awkwardly made my new learned bow, and asked her to be my partner; nor, I am very sure, was my boyish passion at all damped, when, on my raturn from college, I found my sweet little Kitty changed, by some undefinable alteration, from a lovely child to a bewitching young woman. She was almost the same as when I parted from her three years before -the woman was very like the childthere were the same rosy cheeks, the same pouting, innocent mouth, the same curling hair, but some charm, grace, or sentiment was added, which made my heart thrill with new emotion as I gazed at her.

"Kitty," said I to her one day, after I had been at home a week or two, and I found I could restrain myself no longer, "Kitty, I'm very much in love with you, as you know as well as I do. I've always been in love with you, and I fancy you are in love with me; but now I want you to me, Kitty, don't you?"

"First tell me," said Kitty, blushing, and with an odd mixture of delight and bashfulness in her face, "if you've made me what is called 'an offer?'

"To be sure I have, my darling," I replied; "an offer which I trust and hope you'll accept."

"Don't be too sure of that," said Kitty, demurely.

"Kitty! you love me?" I exclaimed.

"That's my secret," replied the provoking little thing. "But at any rate, 's she life if I did. No, indeed; no girl of spirit able-good manners-clegant figure, and if she were afraid she should never have I'm very much afraid of my new rival." another. Excuse me. James, I can't possi- "You have cause," Kitty replied, with bly accept you till I've had at least one grave dignity. other offer !

"But, my dearest Kitty," I began.
"Kitty! Kitty! Kitty!" she exclaimed,
"will you never, Mr. Brant, learn to call me by my proper name? I confess I did hope that on receiving my 'first offer,' the person making it would address me with proper courtesy, and in a manner befitting the occasion, giving me my name of Katharine; but now you've gone and spoiled it

"Oh, I suppose you wanted a stiff, ceremonious proposal in form," I observed; "but I'm no Sir Charles Grandison, Kitty -Katharine, I would say; therefore don't be foolish; be content to know in plain words that my whole heart is yours; and have the good sense to accept my first offer, since your second may not be so good."

But vain were my arguments and reasorings. Kitty was determined not to accept her first offer, and finding her resolute I changed my tone, and acquiescing in her appeared, and declaring that fishing was views, confessed that after all I too had a dull work and the fish would not hite, he certain pride on that point, and should be rather mortified to know that my wife had nover had any offer but that I had myself made her; and so I promised to suspend my suit till Kitty should be so fortunate as to receive an offer from some other quarter.

The

there was a favorite dell, or bower, or some- talk so encouragingly of books and authors, thing of the kind, to which she daily repaired with some chosen volume to sit and read. All my endeavors to persuade her to allow me to accompany her thither had the young man begged permission to read the young man begged permission to read always been quite in vain. Kitty was firm her a few admirable passages from the book in preferring her undisturbed solitude, and, she held in her hand, and it so happened out soon after the conversation I have companionship.

after she had reached her favorite scat, ere her attention was aitracted by a young gentleman who was fishing in the book which flowed near her. Kitty drew back a little on seeing him, but her curious eyes occa-

she had found a new admirer. Kitty, highly flattered, received the stranger's advances graciously, and the youth being by no means bashful, half an hour found them chatting easily and gaily on various topics of interest. Kitty's stay in the woods was something longer than usual that afternoon.

"What is the matter, Kitty?" I asked, on meeting her soon after her return home. "Your eyes sparkle, and you look as pleased as though you had met a fairy in your afternoon ramble."

"It's better than a fairy," cried Kitty, breathlessly, "it's a young man."

"Indeed!" I ejaculated, with a whistle.

"Yes, James," she replied, "and he's so handsome—so agreeable—so delightful, that I can't say how things might go if he were to make me, some of these days, my second offer."

"You can't impose upon me in that kind of way sweet Kitty, so don't attempt it," I exclaimed. "Pil be bound the impudeut fellow, whom I wouldn't object speaking a bit of my mind to, is not handsomer or more agreeable than I am myself." Kitty laughed aloud in derision. "He's a thousand times handsomer than you are, she cried scornfully, "and as much mor cutertaining as he is more handsome."

"Come, Kitty, don't be too cutting, too ernel," I began; but Kitty drew herself up with dignity.

"They call me Katherine, who do speak to me, sir," she said.

"Katharine, fiddlesticks!" I cried. Kitty is the prettiest and sweetest name in the world, and comes most natural to me don't bother me with your Katharines.

"I dare say you may like it," said Kitty, pouting, half angrily, "but I don't .ts too free. How would you like if I ersisted in calling you Jim? I declare 'll call you Jim, if you go on calling me

"Do so if you like," I replied, "and it will soon sound to me like the sweetest name in the world. But may I presume to beg from my fair and gracious Lady Katharine a description of the wood-Adonis she has been encountering?"

"He is tall," began Kitty.
"Taller than I?" I interrupted. Kitty

almost annihilated me by a look. "By at least half a foot-and of an ele gant figure," she continued with marked emphasis. "He was dressed in a fishing costume, which greatly became him."

"I have an old fishing blouse, up stairs," I muttered, sotto voce, "I think I'll get it

"The young man's manners were uncommonly easy and gentlemanly, and withal perfectly respectful and deferential," continued Kitty. "Having ascertained my promise to marry me." I paused, but Kit-ty made no arswer, and I said, "You like as to abbreviate it, his conduct contrasted favorable in that respect with some of his friends."

"Well, Kitty," said I, "what other perfections had your hero, or have you exhausted your list?"

"Far from it," said Kitty, indignantly. "He wears his hair parted down the middle like a poet, or that charming Signor Pozzolini in the part of Edgardo-

"Or a Methodist parson," I observed. "And besides all that," continued Kitty, The has a moustache.

"A last, best gift," said I; "but Kitty, continued, "I could not possibly think of that perfection, I hope will not be very difaccepting the very first offer I ever received ficult of achievement. I'll begin to-mor-I should be mortified all the rest of my row. Let me see-tall-handsome-agreewould dream of accepting her first offer, as moustache! On the whole, Kitty, I think

The next day when Kitty reached her retreat, she found the stranger again in its neighborhood. I must do the little coette the justice of confessing that she d look startled, and indeed vexed, when she saw him; but perhaps thinking it too late to retreat she advanced timidly. The outh met her with many apologies, and a lausible pretence for his intrusion, which she could not gainsay, while something flatering in his manner made her blushingly divine that the hope of again seeing he had been the true cause of his reappearance. Be that as it i ight, the stranger, perhaps give Kitty time to recover her confidence immediately sauntered off in pursuit of his sport, and Kitty, fancying she had seen the last of her new admirer, drew forth her book, and setting herself in a mossy corner began to read. She however had scarcely succeeded in fixing her attention on it pages before the pertinacious stranger re composedly seated himself at Kitty's feet, and begged to know the name of the book she was reading? "Tennyson's Princess," replied Kitty.

The imperturable stranger declared the Now, not far from where Kitty dwelt, book a great favorito of his, and bogan to I was daily doomed to an hour or two of that the passages he had selected were the mopes during her romantic woodland very ones Kitty loved best; he read them well, too, and Kitty's bright eyes sparkled In pursuance with this custom Kitty set with delight as she listened. Turning at him." last to the exquisite concluding interview sketched, declining as usual, my offer of between Ida and the young prince, the stranger's voice became more and more Not more than half an hour had clapsed carnest as he read, till coming to the words :

Indeed I love thee; come. Yield thyself up; my hopes and thine are one; Accomplish than my manheod and thyself— Lay thy sweet hands in mine, and trust to on seeing him, but her curious eyes occasionally wandered towards the stranger.—

The latter no sooner perceived his fair observer than he bowed with an air of great would I not give for courage to uttor thom politeness, and adventing a few steps ventured to take the fact words of component and then broke the fact words of component greeting. The young man's forth impetuously, "This forced silence is words were indeed commonplace, but his eyes were far more cloquent than his tongue — they plainly informed the fair Kitty that dent—cautious—to allow you time—not to dent-cautious-to allow you timestartle you-lovely, bewitching Miss Kath arine-you are yourself the object of my secret adoration-to whom I would say much if I dared," and thereupon the youth rather melodramatically fell on one knee, and forthwith proceeded to make Kitty a very plain offer of his hand.

Meanwhile Kitty had risen from her seat, and recovering from her astonishment. she drew herself up with dignity and replied, "I hardly know, sir, what you mean y your strange words and conduct. The liberty you have taken has made me very sensible of my own imprudence in having allowed the advances of a stranger so presuming-an error I shall be careful never to repeat." So saying, my proud litty Kitty (never had she looked so handsome) turned repeat. from the stranger with a distant bow, and walked directly home.

I did not see Kitty till some time after her return; perhaps she was recovering her spirits in her own room, for when I met her she was as full of mischief as ever,

"Well, James, why don't you ask about my adventures to-day?" she inquired.
"Because," I replied, "I didn't suppose you would be so imprudent as to go again to-day where you would be likely to to address you yesterday.

"I didn't in the least expect him to be there," said Kitty, blushing and somewhat confused, "but he was there.

. "Of course," I replied gruffly. "Well, was your Adonis as handsome and agreeable as ever?"

"More so !" cried Kitty, recovering her composure; "he looked more Massaniellolike than ever in his fishing dress; and for cutertainment, he first read me all the finest part of Tennyson's Princess, and then made a marriage proposal, and I don't think any man could be expected to do more in one afternoon.

"I should think not indeed!" said I; "pray what reply did you make to the rascal ?-that you had a friend at home who would be happy to kick him well for his insolence ?"

"Far from it," said Kitty; "what my reply was, is my secret—and his; but for you, my poor James, I'm sorry for youit's all over with you, and your offer.'

"Why you good-for-nothing, little de-ceitful puss!" cried I, losing patience, there never was a more arrant dissembler living. Behold how plain a tale shall put down !- for lo-I myself disguised merely by a little paint-a fishing-blouse, a false moustache, and a change in the arrangement of my hair, was in my own person this elegant-captivating-handsome, agrecable stranger, whose praises you have been so lavishly sounding.

Poor Kitty was completely confounded. "How could I have been so stupid?" she murmured, "and the voice, too, which sounded so familiar all the time!"

"Yes, Kitty, you're caught," said I. "and to punish you for attempting just now to palm a wicked falsehood upon me, I shall impose a two-fold fine. First, you shall kiss me; and then fix our wedding day, which must be very shortly, for I'm going to Paris in a month, and you must go with

Kitty gave a little scream, and declared that she could not think of submitting to either of my penalties; but in vain she struggled and protested—I had her in my arms, and finding at last all her efforts to release herself fruitless, her jests and laughter suddenly changed to earnest tenderness, and closing her arms round me, she said, "As you will, dear-dearest Jamie!"

" One month from to-day then, my own, sweet, darling Kitty," I began.

"Katherine!" whispered Kitty.
"Katherine, then," I repeated, smiling at her pertinacity on this point-"one month from to-day, my Katherine."

"You never put any adjectives before Katherine," nurnured Kitty, evasively, hiding her blushing and pouting face. "My own dear, gracious winning, be-witching, most kissable Katherine," said I, shall it be as I say?"

"If mamma chooses," whispered Kitty And so I persuaded the sweetest and pret-tiest girl in the country to accept her first and only lover; and though to this day my merry little wife often complains that I det.auded her, by my tricks, of her natural womanly right of breaking two or three hearts at least ere she made one man supremely blest, still she generally concludes her reproaches in a manner most flattering to my vanity, by declaring that she had two offers after all, and that each of them was worth a thousand common ones,

Is SHE "ENGAGED?"-"Is Miss Blimkims at home?" asked Mr. Sanders of the maid who answered his ring at the door.—
"Yes, and b'lave she is, sir." "Is she engaged?" inquired Mr. Sanders. "Engaged is it? I can't cay, sir; but she kissed Mr. Vincent last evening as if she had never seen the likes of him, and it's engaged I b'lave they are, sir.'

LITTLE Girl—"Pa, didn't you whip me for biting Tommy?" Papa—"Yes, my child, for you hurt him very much." Little Girl—"Well, then, pa, you ought to whip mamma's music teacher, too, for he bit her yesterday right in the mouth, and I know it hurt her, because she put her arms around his neck, and tried to cheke

"GRANDPA, did you know that the United States have been in the babit of encouraging and acknowledging tories?"-"Certainly not; what kind of tories?" "Torri-tories. Now give me some peanuts, or I'll eatch the measles, and make you pay for 'ess."

Beauty.
"Tis not the fairness of the brow,
Nor brightness of the eyes
Nor the check, whose radiant glow,
Can with carnation vie,

That has power to chain my gaze, Or hold it in control! The beauty that I most admire, Shines spotters from the soul.

The beauty of the form and face, Last only in our prime; The charms that centre in the soul, Will never waste with time;

The radiance from that inner shrine, Will chain for hours my earnest gaze, Its charms can never die

A Remarkable Magician-The Necro-

mancer in Algeria. Every one has seen, or heard spoken of. he great Robert Houdin. Beside being the prince of conjurors, he is an able mathematician and machanician, and his electrie clock, made for the Hotel de Ville of his native town of Blois, obtained a medal at the Paris Exhibition. It is not generally known that he was sent to Algeria by the French Government on a mission con neeted with the black art-probably the first time that a conjurer has been called upon to exercise his profession in Govern ment employ. Some details of his exhibi-tion have just been published. Its object was to destroy the influence exercised aencounter the insolent puppy who presumed mong the Arab tribes by the Maraboutsan influence often mischievously applied .-By a few clumsy tricks and impostures these Marabouts pass themselves off as sorcerers; no one, it was justly thought, was better able to eclipse their skill and discredit their science than the man of inexhaustible bottles.

One of the great pretensions of the Mar about was to invulnerability. At the moment that a loaded musket was aimed at him, and the trigger pulled, he pronounced a few cabalistic words and the weapon did not go off. Houdin detected the trick, and showed that the tubehole was pluged. The Arab wizard was furious, and abused his French rival. "You may revenge yourself," quietly replied Houdin; "take tol; load it yourself; here are bullets; put one in the barrel; but before doing so, mark it with your knife." The Arab did as he was told. "You are quite certain, now," said Houdin, "that the pistol is loaded and will go off. Tell me, do you feel no remorse in killing me thus, notwithstanding that I authorize you?" "You are my enemy," coolly replied the Arab; "I will kill you." Without replying, Houdin stuck an apple on the point of a knife, and calmly gave the word to fire.

The pistol was discharged, the apple flew far away, and there appeared in its place. stuck on the point of the knife, the bullet that Marabout had marked,

The spectators remained mute from stuperaction; the Marabout bowed before his superior. "Allah is great!" be suid, "I am vanquished." Instead of the bottle from which, in Europe, Robert Houdin pours an endless stream of every description of wine and liquor, he called for an empty bowl, which he kept continually full of boiling coffee, but few of the Arabs would taste it, for they made sure that it came direct from the devil's own coffee pot. He then told them that it was in his power to deprive them of all strength, and to restore it to them at will, and he produced a small box, so light that a child could lift it with his finger; but it suddenly became so heavy that the strongest man present could not raise it, and the Arabs, who prize physical strength above everything, looked with terror at the great magician who, they doubted not, could annihilate them by the mere exertion of his will. They expressed this therefore, that the said absent parties before belief : Houdin confirmed them in it, and promised that, on a day appointed, he would convert one of them into smoke. The day came; the throng was prodigious; a fanatical Marabout had agreed to give himself up to the sorcerer. They made him stand upon a table and covered him with a transparent gauze; the Houdin and another person lifted the table by the two ends, and the Arab disappeared in a cloud of smoke.

The terror of the spectators was indescribable; they rushed out of the place, and ran a long distance before some of the boldest thought of returning to look after the Marabout. They found him near the place where he had been evaporated, but ie could tell them nothing, and was like a drunken man, ignorant of what had hap-pened to him. Thenceforward Houdin was venerated, and the Marabouts despised; the object of the French Government was comoletely attained. The fashion of "testimo nials" having, it appeared, infected even the Arabs, and a number of chiefs presented the French conjuror with a piece of Arab writing, wonderfully decorated, hyperbolical and eulogistic, and to which they were so attentive as to append a French trans-lation. Besides this memorial of his Λ lgerine trip, Houdin has a rosary which he one day borrowed from an Arab to perform a trick with, and which the owner, persuaded that Shitan in person was be-fore him, refused to receive back.— London Times' Paris Correspondent.

HESBANDING OUR OPINIONS -As many writers have taken the trouble to define what a wife ought to be, we may as well add our idea on the subject to the general fund: A wife should be like roast lamb, tender and nicely dressed.

"CAPTAIN, what's the fare to St. Louis?" "What part of the boat do you wish to go in -cabin or deck?" "Hang your cabin," said the gentleman, from Indiana, "I live in a cabin at home; give me the best you've

An old lady on Long Island, said her idea of a nice man was: "A man what is keerful of his clothes, don't drink no spirit, kin read the Bible without spellin the words, and cat a cold dinner on wash-day, to save the whomin folks from cookin'?

"Way in such a harry?" said a man to an acquaintance. "Why," said the man, "I have just bought my wife a new bonnet, and fear that the fashion may change before I get home."

of one of her neighbors of the name of Jones, and with a knowing look, replied: "Why, I don't like to say anything about my neighbors; but, as to Mr. Jones, sometimes I think, and then again I don't know, but after all, I rather guess he'll turn out to be a good deal such a sort of a man as 1 take him to be !"

" MARGERY, what did you do with that tallow that Mr. Jones grossed his boots with this morning?" "Please marm, I baked the griddle-cakes with it." "You did; I thought you had wasted it."

"SAY, Pomp, you nigger, whar you get dat new hat?" "Why, at de shop, ob course?" "What is the price of such an article as dat?" "I don't know, nigger-I don't know; the shop-keeper wasn't dar.'

FOOTE once asked a man without a sense of tune in him: "Why are you for ever humming that tune?" "Because it haunts me," was the reply. "No wonder," said Foote, "you are forever murdering it."

Hore .-- A sentiment exhibited in a dog's tail, when waiting for a bone.

"MOTHER, I've got such a bad headache, and sore threat, too." "Have you, my dear? well, you shall have some medicine," "It's no matter," retorted the shrewed urchin : I've got 'em, but they don't hurt me."

THUE .- Forly is the author of this-"Let him who expects one class of society to prosper in the highest degree, while the other is in distress, try whether one side of his face can smile while the other is pinch-

PUNCH says that the trees, with the modesty of nature, knowing that they are about to be stripped of their roses of foliage, and to be stripped of their rowes of foliage, and stand naked before the world, will soon commence to change color.

E. B. BENSON & SON AT "OLD PENDLETON," A MOREGENERAL AND EXTENSIVE assortment of

Fall and Winter Goods. In every department than heretofore, a list of which would be too long for a newspaper advertisement.

All persons in want of GOODS of any kind are invited to examine their Stock before pur-chasing, . s they h. ve the Goods, and are determined to sell. Oct, 28, 1857

Administrators' Sale.

MERE will be sold, on Thursday the 26th day of November, instant, to the high-bidder, at the late residence of Captain Robert Stewart, deceased, all the Personal Estate of said deceased, consisting of Corn. Fodder, Wheat, Shucks, Rye, Cattle, 1 yoke of Oxen, 4 head of Horses, 2 Wagons, 20 good fat Hogs, stock Hogs, 1 Still and Stands, Farming Tools, Household and Kitchen Furniture, and many other articles too tedious to mention. TERMS.—All sums over five dollars on a redit of twelve months with interest; of and under that amount, cash.

ABRAHAM STEWART, | Adm'rs T. N. McKINNLY, Nov. 9, 1857 18

The State of South Carolina, Jonas Phillips, Jr.

Summons in Partition. Itenry Gasaway, et als Summons in Partition, Il Tappearing to my satisfaction that John Gasaway, James Gasaway, Rachel Gasaway, Ira Gasaway, William Gasaway, Jeremiah Sutton and wife Sarah, Wesley Gasaway, Bryant Bandy, and wife Phiebe, Nathan Phillips and wife Mahala, Edward Williams and wife Mary, reside become the Heister of the beyond the limits of this State: It is ordered, named do appear in my office at Pickens C. H., either personally or by attorney, and object to the division or sale of the Real Estate of Henry Gasaway, deceased, within three months from the publication hereof, or their consent to the same will be entered of record.

W. J. PARSONS, o.r.o. Ordinary's Office, Nov. 7, 1857. 3m

Coroner's Sale.

BY virtue of a writ of fiert fivings to me directed, I will sell to the highest bidder, before the Court House, in Pickens district, within the legal hours of sale, on the first Monday in December next, Two buggies; also, 4 wheels, 2 bolsters, e hounds and tongue of a two horse all levied as the property of John T. Watson, at the suit of L. Coatsworth Craig vs the said John T. Watson and Joshua Jameson.

W. J. GANTT, c.p.p.

Nov. 5, 1857

Final Settlement.

LL persons interested will take notice that a final settlement of the Estate of Thomas H. Gusaway, deceased, will be made before the Ordinary, at Pickens C. H., on Monday the 11th day of January next.—Those indebted to said Estate must make payment, and those having demands will render them, in legally attested, by that time them in, legally attested, by that time.

JAS. D. GASAWAY, Admir.
Oct. 5, 1857

3m

LUMBER! LUMBER!

PHE undersigned are now propared to fill or ders for LUMBER of all kinds, at their Mi on Oconce Creek, seven miles north-east of Wal halla. Lumber will be delivered if it is desire halid. Lumber will be delivered if it is desired by the purchaser. Our terms will be made ac-commodating, and we respectfully solicit the pa-tronage of the public. JAMES GEORGE, M. F. MITCHELL, Feb. 10, 1857—31 J. N. LAWRENCE.

NOTICE. Id. persons baving demands against the Estate of Robert Stewart, Esq., late of A Estate of Robert Stewart, Esq., Inte of Pickens district, deceased, are requested to hand them in, legally attested; and, those indebted to said Estate, must make immediate payment to the undersigned.

T. R. PRICE, Edne's.

Oct. 26, 1857

LOOK OUT!

S. & E. W. BROWN are JUST RECEIVED.

D. 1,000 Sacks of Salt in ecaplus bags.
Large lot of GROCERTES of all kinds, viz: Sugar, Coffee, Iron, Rocon, & 4., & 6., carefully selected for the Fall Trade. -ALSO-

5,000 lbs. Bacon Sains, 80 colb Rope, 10 balos Bagging, Leather and Russet Brogana, had-ing spitcles in Hardware, Szovsia, 80; Call at the old stand, at ANDERSON COURT HOUSE, S. C., and we'll do what saight!
S. E. W. BROWN.

An old lady was asked what she thought TO FARMERS AND BUTCHERS !

K NOW all men by these presents,
N. SMITH, am now giving the highestprice for GREEN AND DRY HIDES ever before offered in this country, namely:
Hides, Green, from 64 to 74 cents per pound,
do. Dry. 10 to 124 " "

Bring your Hides to me just as soon as you get them off the beast, and it will be better for us all. J. N. SMITH.

Jan. 29, 1857 29 1y

Pendleton Rail Road Company.

THE Eleventh, Twelfth, Thirteenth, Four-teenth, and Finesath Instalments of GNP DOLLAR each on she Stack of the Pendieton Railroad Company will be payable as follows: Eleventh Instalment on the 1st of August, 1857 October " December "
Peb'y, 1858
Mpril "
W. H. D. GAILLARD, Twelfth " "
Thirteenth " "
Fourteenth " "
Fifteenth " "

See, and Trens, Pendleton R. R. Co. Pendleton, May 25, 1857 46 id

DR. Z. W. GREEN OFFERS his Professional services to the citizens of Pickens District, in the practice of Medicine in its various branches. He would say that he has an experience of ten years in practice. Office in his Store. [April 14, 1857.

WINDOW SASHES

OF all kinds, manufactured by Easley & Davis, superior for their exectness and durability, and already painted and glazed, with the best American and French Window Giass. Always on hand of Walhalla, and for sale low by JOHN KRUSE.

BELLEVUE COMPANY. Pure Zine and American White Lead, for which the highest premium was awarded at

WANDOW GLASS, Raw and Boiled Linseed Oil, Spirits Turpentine, Putty, all kiwls of Paints, dry and also ground in Oil; Glue, Paint Brashes, and all articles in this line. For sale, at the lowest figure for cash, by

Wallialla, Feb. 12, 1857 31 ff

JEWELRY, GOLD & SILVER. JEAN Bre. FISCHESSER, Wallalla, S. C., HAS just now returned from New York with a large and beautiful assortment of

WATCHES, JEWELRY, (Both GOLD and SILVER,) Clocks, Music Boxes, Combs, Brushes, Fancy Articles, Perfumery, Suaps, Gold Pens, etc.; all of which has been bought for CASIL, and which he offers for sale on the most accommodating terms.

TO He also REPAIRS WATCHES and other articles in his line, and solicits the patronage of the public. His stand is near the public quare, at Walhalla, S. C. Dec. 15, 1856 24

W. K. EASLEY. ISAAC WICKLIFFE. EASLEY & WICKLIFFE.

Attorneys at Law. VILL attend punctually to all business en-trusted to their care in the Districts emprising the Western Circuit.

OFFICE AT PICKENS C. H., S. C.

LL persons indebted to the Estate of John Couch, late of Pickens district. deceased, are hereby notified that they must make payment; and, those having demands against said estate, will present them to us legally attested. MARY A. COUCH, Adm'x. ROB'T, COUCH, Adm'r. 1857 11 3m Sept. 20, 1857

APPLICATION will be made to the Legislature of South Carolina, at its next session, for an act to incoporate the Pickens C. H. Church, Sept. 5, 1857.

A PPLICATION will be made to the Legislature, at its next session, for a renewal of the net incorporating site village of Pickens, with amendments to the same.

Angust 22, 1857 6 3m LOTS FOR SALE.

PERSONS desirous of purchasing LOTS IN THE TOWN OF WALHALLA, can have iem on the usual conditions. tem on the usual conditions. Apply to
H. OSTENDORMY, Agent.
Walhalla, Nov. 9, 1854 20 ff

NOPICE.

A FINAL selflement of the Estate of C. D. Keith, deceased, will be made before the Ordinary, at Pickens C. H., on the first Saturday in January next. All persons indebted to said estate must come forward and pay up, and those having demands will render them in legally attested by that time.

MATTHEW KRITH, Adm'r.

August 20, 1857 7 8m

GUN & BLASTING POWDER. POWDER MILL being now in active operation, Gum and Blasting Powder can be furnished to dealers and others at low rates. All orders gudressed to D. Biemann, Walhalls, will be alterated to JOHN A. WAGE Sept. 20, 1856 12 tf

Final Estate Notices PUBLIC NOTICE is hereby given that parties interested, that a fund settlement of the Estate of Allen Robinson, deceased, will be made before the Ordinary, at Pickens C. H., on Monday the this day of December next. After that time I will not be held responsible for interest.

Sept. 5, 1857 ALVA CHIFFIN, Adm'r. Estate Notice. A FINAL Settlement of the Estate of Daniel Looper, deceased, will be suid before the Ordinary, at Pickens C. II's on Friday the 28th day of January next. All presents indebted to said Estate must core torward and pay up, and those baying demands will render them in legally attested by that time.

by that time JEREMI AT TRAINUM, Adm's Oct. 19, 1857 TO CREDITORS. NOTICE is hereby given to the judgment N and other creditors of James King, decaased, that they must establish kiner respective demands before us, on or before Monday, the 7th day of Decomber user; orthorwise, they will be barred.

E. B. KEITH, Ex'tris.

E. M. KEITH

T. J. KEITH

T. J. KEITH

Sept. 5, 1857.

Sept. 5, 1857.